Hillel's Secret Diary

Sunday, August 23rd

My name is Hillel and I'm 8 years old. I live in Samarkand with my family. I'm writing this diary in SECRET because if anyone finds it, I'm DOOMED.

OK so here's the deal. I'm not supposed to exist. I mean, I DO exist (duh), but the neighbors can't know I exist.

Why? Because apparently the government has this GENIUS idea that all kids have to go to their dumb schools where they teach you that Hashem doesn't exist. Which is like teaching kids that candy doesn't exist. WHILE EATING CANDY. It makes no sense!

So basically I'm under house arrest. Except I didn't even do anything wrong! I just exist!

This is SO unfair. On the unfairness scale, this is like a 47 out of 10. It's worse than when Yankel gets the bigger piece of challah. It's worse than having to go to bed early. It's even worse than eating cold cholent.

Monday, August 24th

You know what's the WORST? Watching other kids play outside through the curtains while you're stuck inside like some kind of prisoner.
Today I saw the Goldberg kids (not Jewish) playing with a ball and it bounced RIGHT near our window. I wanted to open it and throw it back SO BAD. But NOOOO. Someone might see me and then boom - government people show up.
I've been thinking though - what if I made a disguise? Like a really big coat and a fake mustache? Then I could pretend to be a short adult! Genius, right? But Mommy said no. She didn't even think about it! Adults have no imagination.
My older brother Yankel thinks he's SO cool because he's 12 and has been hiding longer. He calls himself a "professional hider." Professional hider. That's not even a real job, Yankel! (Although I'm getting pretty good at it too. Yesterday I hid behind the curtain for 20 minutes and nobody even knew. I'm basically a hiding champion.)
My sister Rivka had to go to school today. I kind of feel bad for her but also she gets to GO OUTSIDE so really who's the winner here?
Tuesday, August 25th

	OK so I almost gave us away today and it wasn't even my fault!
	We have this special knock so we know it's safe. It goes:
•	Knock knock
•	Wait (count to 3 in your head)
•	Knock knock
•	Wait (count to 3 again)
•	Knock knock
	If you mess it up, everyone FREAKS OUT.
	So today someone knocked regular and I was right by the door eating an apple and I almost opened it! Mommy DOVE across the room and grabbed my hand. I dropped my apple and it rolled under the couch.
	It was just the mailman. But now my apple is gross and fuzzy. Thanks a lot, mailman.
	Also Yankel said I almost got us all sent to Siberia. I don't even know where that is but it sounds cold.
	Wednesday, August 26th
	Mr. Daniel came over today. He DID the special knock right (unlike SOME PEOPLE, mailman).

He's this old guy who tells the WORST stories. Like, today he told us about how he used to trick parents into sending their kids to the government schools. And then he started getting all emotional about kids who wouldn't eat treif.
He was like "Those children were heroes." and his eyes got all watery.
Great. Now I feel bad for complaining about being stuck inside. But also I'M STILL STUCK INSIDE. Those kids got to be heroes. I just get to be bored. Unfairnes rating: 9 out of 10.
Later I heard Tatty tell Mommy that Daniel said something about "the walls closing in." Are our walls moving?! I checked mine. They seem the same distance apart as yesterday. Adults are so dramatic.
Thursday, August 27th
THIS IS NOT A DRILL. TEACHERS ARE HUNTING FOR KIDS.
I'm not even joking. They're walking around with clipboards asking people "Do you know any kids who should be in school?"

Its 1	ike they're the child-catcher from that story, except REAL and OUTSIDE MY
HOUS	E.
I wa-	tched from behind the curtain (I'm getting really good at curtain-watching). One teach	er asked Mrs. Goldberg next door and my heart was beating so hard I thought sh could	probably HEAR it.
But N	1rs. Goldberg just shrugged. PHEW.
Yank	el says this happens every year. They call it "registration" but I call it
"Hunt	ing Season for Hidden Kids."
Frid	ay, August 28th Erev Shabbos
Getti	ng ready for Shabbos when you're in hiding is like trying to play freeze dance
but t	he music NEVER comes back on.
Today	Mommy was teaching us the parsha and I wasn't really listening (sorry Mommy) becaus	se I was thinking about how badly I wanted to go outside and ride a bike. Do you k	now how long it's been since I rode a bike? FOREVER.
"i lai -i	, are you paying attention?" Mommy asked.

"Yes," I lied.
(65) 1 100
"WHAT D	DID I JUST SAY?"
Uh oh.
"UM S(	OMETHING ABOUT BEING STRONG?"
She sighed. "	Yes, Hillel. Yidden have always had to be strong."
Lucky guess.

Tatty has B	IG NEWS. We're getting a secret melamed!
But here's like	e 47 rules about it:
Hell use	the special knock
We can N	NEVER +ell ANYONE
Not ever	other Jewish kids
Not even	if they're our best friends
Not ever	if they bribe us with candy
T don't avan	HAVE any best friends because I CANTLEAVE THE HOUSE.

things I'm not supposed to do.  Sunday, August 30th  Remember the Friedman kids? They got CAUGHT not being in school.
Remember the Friedman kids? They got CAUGHT not being in school.
You know what happened? Their parents had to send them to live with relatives IN ANOTHER CITY. Like, their parents were just like "Bye kids, go live somewhere el	se ow."
That's terrifying! What if that happens to us? What if I have to go live with Tante Miriam? She smells like pickles and pinches cheeks.
Nommy hugged me extra long tonight. I think she's worried too. But at least her hug	ys .
on't smell like pickles.
Monday, August 31st
Our melamed came today! His name is Reb Mendel and his beard is so long I bet he could trip on it. (I didn't say that out loud though.)

He	whispered THE ENTIRE TIME. Like, we're inside our own house! I whispered bac
"∖	Thy are we whispering?"
Н	e said "The walls have ears in Samarkand."
W	HAT?! I spent the next ten minutes staring at the walls looking for ears. I didn't se	e ahy.
Ya	ankel laughed so hard he snorted. "It means people might be listening, dummy!
아	n. That makes more sense. But also, rude, Yankel.
Tł	ne cool part though? Learning in whispers makes everything feel like a secret mis	ssion. We're like Torah spies or something. That's actually pretty awesome. This mig	ght be the ONE good thing about hiding - everything feels way more important when it's	s secret.
T	uesday, September 1st
Fii	rst day of school! Not for me though. Obviously.
R	ivka had to go and she looked like she was going to her own execution. Tatty gave he	r a hug and whispered something. Probably "Remember everything they say about Hashem	is total nonsense."

I wate	hed all the kids walking by with their backpacks and lunch boxes. One kid droppe	d his apple and it rolled into the street. He just picked it up and kept eating i	t! GROSS! But also at least he CAN eat his apple in the street. Unlike
SOME	people who are stuck inside.
I'm no	t bitter. OK maybe a little bitter.
Wedne	esday, September 2nd
Mommy	told us the story of how we came to Samarkand today. Apparently when I was 3
we had	to run away from Nazis.
She sai	d I was SO hungry and this not-Jewish neighbor tried to give me food but it kosher. And I cried and cried but Mommy didn't let me eat it.
"Even	as a baby, you kept kosher." she said all proud.
Great.	So I've been suffering for food my WHOLE LIFE. This explains so much.
Thurs	sday, September 3rd

TO:	DAY WAS INSANE.
A +	reacher came to our door! And she did NOT know the special knock!
Mon	nmy grabbed me and Yankel and basically THREW us into the back room. I crashed into	Yankel and we both fell over. My elbow still hurts.
We	could hear everything:
Tea	cher: "Hello, I'm from the school. Do you have any children?"
Mon	nmy: "Just my daughter."
Tea	cher: "No boys?"
Mor	nmy: "No."
Yan	kel put his hand over my mouth which was gross because his hands smelled like heri	ring. I couldn't even complain because then the teacher would hear me.
Fino	ally she left. We stayed hidden for another MILLION YEARS (OK, ten minutes) just to f	pe safe.
	heart was beating so fast I thought it might explode. Is this what being a spy

Fı	iday, September 4th Erev Shabbos
T	atty came home early and he looked more tired than that time I made him play horsey
c <sub>o</sub>	r an hour straight.
+	e said MORE families are having to send their kids away. It's getting worse.
\	Vill we have to leave?" I asked.
I	Im yirtzeh Hashem, no," he said.
T	hen he said we need to be EVEN MORE CAREFUL.
١	ore careful?! What's next, are we going to have to turn invisible? Because that
10	ould actually be cool. But also impossible. I checked.
4	ctually, I have a new plan. What if we dig a tunnel from our house to the shul?
T	hen we could go places underground like moles. I drew a map and everything. Tatty id	id "Maybe when you're older." That's adult code for "never."
_1	ater I heard Tatty tell Mommy something about "the net is tightening." Are they
Ç.	shing for kids now? With actual nets? That's terrifying but also kind of silly.
0	ow big would the net need to be?
